

Formal Place Setting

The way forks, knives, spoons, glasses, and cups are placed on the table is called a “table setting”.

The one shown here is a “formal” place setting. We naturally don’t use all of this each day at home, however, it shows us where each piece is placed, whether we have eight pieces of silver or three.

We use the silver from the outside in. For example, the soup spoon on the right would be used before the teaspoon, because soup is served first.

TABLE MANNERS

wait for others before eating

don't play with your food

Use Your Inside Voice

Stay Clear Your Plate

in Your No Complaining

Seat Thank the Cook

Excuse Yourself

Eat Your Vegetables

Chew with Your Mouth

No elbows of the table

Be Grateful for this Meal

SAY
please
AND
thank you

